Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

INTRODUCTION

You are about to enter your final duty, which is to decide the factual issues in the case. I ask that you please pay close attention to me now. I will go as slowly as I can and be as clear as possible.

I told you at the very start of the trial that your principal function during the trial would be to listen carefully and observe each witness who testified. It has been obvious to me and to counsel that you have faithfully discharged this duty, and I thank you for your attentiveness and service. Now that you have heard all of the evidence in this case and the arguments of each side, it is my duty to give you instructions as to the applicable law. My instructions will be in three parts:

First: I will state some general rules about your role and the way in which you are to review the evidence in this case;

Second: I will instruct you as to the two crimes charged in this case and the elements that the government must prove with respect to each; and

Third: I will give you some general rules regarding your deliberations.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Do not single out any one instruction I give you as alone stating the law. Rather, you should consider these instructions as a whole when you retire to the jury room to deliberate on your verdict.

Authority: See Sand, et al. Modern Federal Jury Instructions ("Sand"), Instruction 2-1 (Juror Attentiveness).

I. GENERAL RULES OF LAW

1. Role of the Court

You have now heard all of the evidence in the case as well as the final arguments of the lawyers for the government and for the defendant, Evan Greebel.

My duty at this point is to instruct you as to the law. It is your duty to accept these instructions of law and apply them to the facts as you determine them, just as it has been my duty to preside over the trial and decide what testimony and evidence is relevant under the law for your consideration.

On these legal matters, you must take the law as I give it to you. Even if any attorney or witness has stated a legal principle different from any that I state to you in my instructions, it is my instructions that you must follow.

You should not, any of you, be concerned about the wisdom of any rule that I state. Regardless of any opinion that you may have as to what the law may be – or ought to be – it would violate your sworn duty to base a verdict upon any other view of the law than that which I give you.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Authority: See Sand, 2-2 (Role of the Court).

2. Role of the Jury

As members of the jury, you are the sole and exclusive judges of the facts. Your role is to pass upon the weight of the evidence; determine the credibility of the witnesses; resolve such conflicts as there may be in the testimony; and draw whatever reasonable inferences you decide to draw from the facts as you have determined them.

In determining the facts, you must rely upon your own recollection of the evidence. What the lawyers have said in their opening statements, in their closing arguments, in their objections, or in their questions, is not evidence. Nor is anything I may have said during the trial or may say during these instructions with respect to a factual matter to be taken in substitution for your own independent recollection. What I say is not evidence.

The evidence before you consists of the answers given by witnesses – the testimony they gave, as you recall it – and the exhibits and stipulations that were received in evidence.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

The evidence does not include questions. Only the answers are evidence. But you may not consider any answer that I directed you to disregard or that I directed struck from the record. Do not consider such answers.

Throughout this trial, I have reminded you not to conduct any outside research into this case. I have also instructed you to consciously avoid any media about this case. Likewise, during deliberations, you may only consider the evidence admitted at trial and may not utilize any other information obtained outside the courtroom, including, but not limited to, research on the internet, opinions or statements outside the courtroom, or other sources. You must completely disregard any media reports about this case that you have read in the press, seen on television, or heard on the radio. Indeed, it would be unfair to consider such reports, since they are not evidence and the parties have no opportunity of contradicting their accuracy or otherwise explaining them away. In short, it would be a violation of your oath as jurors to allow yourselves to be influenced in any manner by such media.

Since you are the sole and exclusive judges of the facts, I do not mean to indicate any opinion as to the facts or what your verdict should be. The rulings I have made during the trial are not any indication of my views of what your decision should be as to whether or not the government has proven that Mr. Greebel is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

I also ask you to draw no inference from the fact that upon occasion I asked questions of certain witnesses. These questions were only intended for clarification or to expedite matters and certainly were not intended to suggest any opinions on my part as to the verdict you should render or whether any of the witnesses may have been more credible than any other witness. You are expressly to understand that the court has no opinion as to the verdict you should render in this case.

As to the facts, ladies and gentlemen, you are the exclusive judges. You are to consider the evidence with impartiality. Your verdict must be based solely upon the evidence developed at trial or the lack of evidence.

In reaching your decision as to whether the government sustained its burden of proof, it would be improper for you to consider any personal feelings you may have about Mr. Greebel's race, religion, national origin, sex, age, or profession. It would be equally improper for you to allow any feelings you might have about the nature of the crimes charged to interfere with your decision-making process. All persons are entitled to the presumption of innocence from the start of the trial through the end, and that presumption of innocence remains unless and until you have decided unanimously that the government has met its burden of proof, which I will discuss in a moment.

Draft 2 December 12, 2017

The fact that the prosecution is brought in the name of the United States of America entitles the government to no greater consideration than that accorded to any other party to a litigation. By the same token, it is entitled to no less consideration. All parties, whether government or individuals, are equal before the law.

If you have a reasonable doubt as to Mr. Greebel's guilt as to a particular count, you should not hesitate for any reason to find a verdict of acquittal on that count. But on the other hand, if you should find that the government has met its burden of proving that Mr. Greebel is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt as to a particular count, you should not hesitate because of sympathy or any other reason to render a verdict of guilty on that count.

Under your oath as jurors, you are not to be swayed by sympathy. You are to be guided solely by the evidence in this case, and the crucial question that you must ask yourselves as you sift through the evidence is: Has the government proven that

Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Mr. Greebel is guilty of each count beyond a reasonable doubt?
It is for you alone to decide whether the government has proven that Mr. Greebel is guilty of each of the two counts charged, solely on the basis of the evidence and subject to the law as I charge you. If you follow your oath, and try the issues without fear or prejudice or bias or sympathy, you will arrive at a true and just verdict.

Authority: See Sand, 2-3 (Role of the Jury); 2-4 (Juror Obligations (see Comment regarding Second Circuit charge); 2-11 (Improper Considerations - Matters the Jury May Not Consider); see 2-5 (The Government as a Party); see 2-12 (Sympathy); 2-21 (Contact with Others (instruction against outside research)); 2-17 (Publicity - Final Charge).

3. Conduct of Counsel

It is the duty of the attorneys on each side of a case to object when the other side offers testimony or other evidence which the attorneys believe is not properly admissible. Counsel also have the right and duty to ask the court to make rulings of law and to request conferences at the side bar out of the hearing of the jury. All those questions of law must be decided by me, the court. You should not show any prejudice against an attorney or his or her client because the attorney objected to the admissibility of evidence, or asked for a conference out of the hearing of the jury, or asked the court for a ruling on the law.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

During the course of the trial, I may have admonished an attorney. You should draw no inference against the attorney or the client. It is the duty of the attorneys to offer evidence and press objections on behalf of their client. It is my function to cut off counsel from an improper line of argument or questioning, and to strike answers when I think it is necessary. But you should draw no inference from that.

In fact, in this case, I would like to express my gratitude to each of the attorneys for their conscientious efforts on behalf of their clients and for work well done.

Authority: See Sand, 2-8 (Conduct of Counsel); 2-9 (Reprimand of Counsel for Misconduct).

4. Presumption of Innocence and Burden of Proof

Evan Greebel is before you today because he has been charged in a Superseding Indictment with violating federal law in two counts. The Superseding Indictment is merely a statement of charges, and is not itself evidence. Mr. Greebel has pleaded not guilty to the two crimes with which he is charged in the Superseding Indictment. Mr. Greebel is therefore presumed to be

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

innocent of the charges against him, and that presumption alone, unless overcome, is sufficient to acquit him.

To convict Mr. Greebel, the burden is on the government to prove each and every element of each of the two charged crimes beyond a reasonable doubt. This burden never shifts to a defendant, for the simple reason that the law presumes Mr. Greebel to be innocent. Mr. Greebel is not required to prove that he is innocent and has no burden or duty to call any witness or produce any evidence.

Every defendant starts with a clean slate and is presumed innocent of each of the charges until such time, if ever, that you as a jury are satisfied that the government has proven the defendant guilty of a given charge beyond a reasonable doubt. If the government fails to prove every element of a charge beyond a reasonable doubt, you must find Mr. Greebel not guilty as to that charge.

Authority: See Sand, 4-1 (Presumption of Innocence and Burden of Proof).

5. Reasonable Doubt

What is a reasonable doubt? It is a doubt based on reason. It is doubt that a reasonable person has after carefully weighing all of the evidence. It is a doubt that would cause a reasonable person to hesitate to act in a matter of importance in his or her personal life. Proof beyond a reasonable doubt must, therefore, be proof of a convincing character that a reasonable person would not hesitate to rely on in making an important decision in his or her life.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

A reasonable doubt is not a caprice or whim; it is not a speculation or suspicion. It is not an excuse to avoid the performance of an unpleasant duty. The law does not require that the government prove guilt beyond all possible doubt; proof beyond a reasonable doubt is sufficient to convict.

If, after fair and impartial consideration of all of the evidence or lack of evidence concerning a particular charge against Mr. Greebel, you have a reasonable doubt, you must find Mr. Greebel not guilty of that charge. On the other hand, if after fair and impartial consideration of all the evidence, you are satisfied that the government has proven that Mr. Greebel is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, you should find Mr. Greebel guilty of that charge.

Authority: Sand, 4-2 (Reasonable Doubt); United States v. Glover, 511 F.3d 340, 343 (2d Cir. 2008).

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

6. Forms of Evidence

I now will instruct you as to what is evidence and how you should consider it.

A. What Is Evidence:

The evidence in this case comes in several forms:

1. Sworn testimony of witnesses, including expert witnesses, both on direct and cross-examination;
2. Exhibits that have been received by the court in evidence;
3. Certain exhibits admitted in evidence in the form of charts, summaries and demonstratives. You should consider these charts and summaries as you would any other evidence; and
4. Stipulations of fact to which all the attorneys have agreed. A stipulation means simply that the government and the defendant accept the truth of a particular proposition or fact. Here, the attorneys for the government and the attorneys for Mr. Greebel have entered into stipulations concerning the admission of certain facts and documents that are relevant to this case. You should accept these stipulations as evidence and

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

regard those facts as true, to be given whatever weight you choose.

If I instructed you that a certain document or statement was received in evidence for a limited purpose, you must consider that document or statement for that limited purpose only.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

B. What Is Not Evidence:

Certain things are not evidence and are to be disregarded by you in deciding what the facts are:

1. The Superseding Indictment is not evidence and is entitled to no weight in your evaluation of the facts.
2. Arguments or statements by the attorneys are not evidence.
3. A lawyer's questions of a witness in and of themselves are not evidence - only the answer constitutes evidence.
4. Objections to the questions or to offered exhibits are not evidence. Attorneys have a duty to object when they believe evidence should not be received. You should not be influenced by the objection or by the court's ruling on it. If the objection was sustained, ignore the question. If the objection was overruled, treat the answer like any other answer.
5. Any testimony stricken by the court is not evidence.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

6. Any exhibits identified, but not admitted into evidence by the court, are not evidence, however, testimony regarding such exhibits is evidence. You should disregard any gaps in numbering between exhibits.
7. Any redacted portions of any exhibits are not themselves evidence, and you should not speculate as to why the exhibit was redacted and what might be contained in any redacted portions of an exhibit.
8. Obviously, anything you may have seen or heard outside the courtroom is not evidence.
9. Any notes you may have taken during the course of the trial are not evidence.

Your verdict must be based exclusively upon the evidence or the lack of evidence in this case.

7. Direct and Circumstantial Evidence:

I told you that evidence comes in various forms such as the sworn testimony of witnesses, expert witnesses, exhibits, charts and summaries, and stipulations. There are, in addition, different types of evidence - direct and circumstantial.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

1. Direct evidence: Direct evidence is evidence that proves a fact directly. For example, when a witness testifies to what he or she saw, heard or observed, that is called direct evidence.
2. Circumstantial evidence: Circumstantial evidence is evidence that tends to prove a disputed fact by proof of other facts. To give a simple example, suppose that when you came into the courthouse today the sun was shining and it was a nice day, but the courtroom blinds were drawn and you could not look outside. Then later, as you were sitting here, several people walked in with dripping wet umbrellas and dripping wet raincoats. Because you cannot look outside of the courtroom and cannot see whether or not it is raining, you have no direct evidence that it is raining. But, on the combination of the facts about the dripping wet umbrellas and raincoats, it would be reasonable for you to infer that it had begun to rain. That is all there is to circumstantial evidence. Using your reason and experience, you infer from established facts the existence or the nonexistence of some other fact.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Whether a given inference should be drawn is entirely a matter for you, the jury, to decide.

Please note, however, that drawing an inference is not a matter of speculation or guess; it is a matter of logical inference.

The law makes no distinction between direct and circumstantial evidence. Circumstantial evidence is of no less value than direct evidence, and you may consider either or both, and may give them such weight as you conclude is warranted.

Authority: See Sand, 5-2 (Direct and Circumstantial Evidence).

8. Inferences

The attorneys have asked you to infer, on the basis of your reason, experience, and common sense, from one or more established facts, the existence of some other fact.

An inference is not a suspicion or a guess. It is a reasoned, logical decision to conclude that a disputed fact exists on the basis of another fact that you know exists.

There are times when different inferences may be drawn from facts, whether proved by direct or circumstantial evidence. The government may ask you to draw one set of inferences, while

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

the defense may ask you to draw another. It is for you, and you alone, to decide what inferences you will draw.

The process of drawing inferences from facts in evidence is not a matter of guesswork or speculation. An inference is a deduction or conclusion that you, the jury, are permitted to draw - but not required to draw - from the facts that have been established by either direct or circumstantial evidence. In drawing inferences, you should exercise your common sense.

So, while you are considering the evidence presented to you, you are permitted, but not required, to draw from the facts that you find to be proven such reasonable inferences as would be justified in light of your experience.

Here again, let me remind you that, whether based on direct or circumstantial evidence, or on the logical, reasonable inferences drawn from such evidence, you must be satisfied that the government has proven that Mr. Greebel is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt before you may convict on either charge.

Authority: Sand, 6-1 (Inference Defined).

9. Credibility of Witnesses

You the jury are the sole judges of the credibility - or believability - of the witnesses and the weight their

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

testimony deserves. You should carefully scrutinize all of the testimony given, the circumstances under which each witness testified, and any other matter in evidence that may help you to decide the truth and the importance of each witness's testimony.

Your decisions in this respect may depend on how each witness impressed you. Was the witness candid and forthright or did the witness seem to be hiding something, being evasive or suspect in some way? How did the witness's testimony on direct examination compare with the witness's testimony on cross-examination? Was the witness consistent in the testimony given or were there contradictions? Did the witness appear to know what she or he was talking about and did the witness strike you as someone who was trying to report that knowledge accurately? These are examples of the kinds of common sense questions you should ask yourselves in deciding whether a witness is, or is not, truthful.

You should also consider whether a witness had an opportunity to observe the facts he or she testified about. Also, you should consider whether the witness's recollection of the facts stands up in light of the other evidence in the case.

How much you choose to believe a witness may also be influenced by the witness's bias. Does the witness have a relationship with the government or Mr. Greebel that may affect how he or she testified? Does the witness have some incentive, loyalty, or motive that might cause him or her to shade the truth? Does the witness have some bias, prejudice, or hostility that may cause the witness to give you something other than a completely accurate account of the facts he or she testified to?

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Evidence that a witness is biased, prejudiced or hostile, toward either Mr. Greebel or the government, requires you to view that witness's testimony with caution, to weigh it with care, and to subject it to close and searching scrutiny.

You should also take into account any evidence that the witness who testified may benefit in some way from the outcome of this case. Such an interest in the outcome creates a motive to testify falsely and may sway the witness to testify in a way that advances his own interests. Therefore, if you find that any witness whose testimony you are considering may have an interest in the outcome of this trial, then you should bear that factor in mind when evaluating the credibility of his or her testimony and accept it with great care.

This is not to suggest that every witness who has an interest in the outcome of a case will testify falsely. It is for you to decide to what extent, if at all, the witness's interest has affected or colored his or her testimony.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

You have also heard evidence of what counsel claim are discrepancies in the testimony of certain witnesses, and counsel have argued that such discrepancies are a reason for you to reject the testimony of those witnesses. Evidence of discrepancies may be a basis to disbelieve a witness's testimony. On the other hand, discrepancies in a witness's testimony or between his or her testimony and that of others do not necessarily mean that the witness's entire testimony should be discredited. People sometimes forget things and even a truthful witness may be nervous and contradict him- or herself. It is also a fact that two people witnessing an event may see or hear it differently. Whether a discrepancy pertains to a fact of importance or only to a trivial detail should be considered in weighing its significance.

A willful falsehood always is a matter of importance and should be considered seriously. If any witness is shown to have willfully lied about any material matter, you have the right to conclude that the witness also lied about other matters. You may either disregard all of that witness's testimony, or you may accept whatever part of it you think deserves to be believed. It is for you to decide, based on your total impression of a witness, how to weigh his or her testimony. You should, as always, use common sense and your own good judgment.

Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

10. Authority: United States v. Rivera, No. 13-cr-149 (E.D.N.Y. 2015) (instruction on discrepancies in testimony); see Sand, 7-1 (Witness Credibility – General Instructions); 7-2 (Bias and Hostility); 7-3 (Interest in Outcome). Impeachment of Witnesses

You do not have to accept the testimony of any witness who has not been contradicted or impeached, if you find the witness not to be credible. You may, but need not, find that a witness is contradicted or impeached, for example, if you find that he or she testified to something that was inconsistent with what he or she testified to in the past, or which was inconsistent with documents, the testimony of another witness, or other evidence. You also have to decide which witnesses to believe and which facts are true. To do this you must look at all the evidence, drawing upon your own common sense and personal experience. You should keep in mind that the burden of proof is always on the government and that Mr. Greebel is not required to call any witnesses or offer any evidence, because he is presumed to be innocent.

Authority: See Sand, 4-3 (Number of Witnesses and Uncontradicted Testimony) (modified to remove language regarding the number of witnesses).

11. Defendant's Right Not to Testify

Mr. Greebel did not testify in this case. Under the United States Constitution, a defendant has no obligation to testify or to present any evidence, because it is the government's burden to prove the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. That burden remains with the government throughout the entire trial and never shifts to the defendant. Mr. Greebel is not required to prove that he is innocent, because his innocence as to each charge is presumed unless and until you find unanimously that the government has met its burden of proving that Mr. Greebel is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Therefore, you must not attach any significance to the fact that Mr. Greebel did not testify in this case. You must not draw any adverse inference against him because he did not take the witness stand and you may not consider or even discuss it in any way in your deliberations in the jury room.

Authority: Sand, 5-21 (Improper Consideration of the Defendant's Right to Testify).

12. Testimony of Government Employees/Law Enforcement Witnesses

In this case, you have also heard testimony from witnesses who work for the FBI, a law enforcement agency. The testimony of those witnesses should be evaluated in the same manner as the testimony of any other witness. The fact that a witness may be employed by the government does not mean that you may accord his or her testimony any more or less weight than that of any other witness. At the same time, defense counsel may question the credibility of a witness employed by the government, including a witness who works in law enforcement, on the grounds that his or her testimony may be colored by a personal or professional interest in the outcome of the case. It is for you to decide, after weighing all the evidence, in light of the instructions I have given you about factors relevant to determining the credibility of any witness, whether you accept the testimony of a government employee witness and what weight, if any, it deserves.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Authority: Sand 7-16 (Law Enforcement Witness).

13. Expert Witnesses

In this case, I have permitted certain witnesses to express their opinions about matters that are in issue. A witness may be permitted to testify to an opinion on those matters about which he or she has special knowledge, skill, experience and training. Such testimony is presented to you on the theory that someone who is experienced and knowledgeable in the field can assist you in understanding the evidence or in reaching an independent decision on the facts.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

In weighing this opinion testimony, you may consider the witness' qualifications, his or her opinions, the reasons for testifying, as well as all of the other considerations that ordinarily apply when you are deciding whether or not to believe a witness' testimony. You may give the opinion testimony whatever weight, if any, you find it deserves in light of all the evidence in this case. You should not, however, accept opinion testimony merely because I allowed the witness to testify concerning his or her opinion. Nor should you substitute it for your own reason, judgment and common sense. The determination of the facts in this case rests solely with you.

Authority: Sand, 7-21.

14. Prior Inconsistent Statements

You have heard evidence that some witnesses made statements on earlier occasions, and counsel have argued that these prior statements are inconsistent with the trial testimony of these witnesses. Evidence of what counsel argues are arguably prior inconsistent statements was placed before you for the limited purpose of helping you decide whether to believe the trial testimony of the witness who arguably contradicted himself or herself. If you find that the witness made an earlier

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

statement that conflicts with his or her trial testimony, you may consider that fact in deciding how much of his or her trial testimony, if any, to believe.

In making this determination, you may consider whether the witness purposely made a false statement or whether it was an innocent mistake; whether the inconsistency concerns an important fact, or whether it had to do with a small detail; whether the witness had an explanation for the inconsistency, and whether that explanation appealed to your common sense.

It is exclusively your duty, based upon all the evidence and your own good judgment, to determine whether the prior statement was inconsistent and, if so, how much, if any, weight should be given to the inconsistent statement in determining whether to believe all, part, or none of the witness's testimony.

Authority: Sand, 7-19 (Prior Inconsistent Statements).

15. Preparation for Testimony

During the course of trial, you heard testimony that the attorneys for the parties interviewed witnesses when preparing for and during trial. Attorneys have an obligation to prepare their case as thoroughly as possible, and in the discharge of that responsibility properly interview witnesses in preparation for the trial and from time to time as may be required during the course of the trial.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Authority: United States v. Rivera, No. 13-cr-149 (E.D.N.Y. 2015); Sand, Seventh Circuit Pattern Jury Instruction 3.02.

16. No Duty to Call Witnesses or Produce Evidence or Use Particular Investigative Techniques

Although the government bears the burden of proof beyond a reasonable doubt, and although a reasonable doubt can arise from lack of evidence, you are instructed that there is no legal requirement that the government use any specific investigative techniques or pursue every investigative lead to prove its case. Therefore, although you are to carefully consider the evidence adduced by the government, you are not to speculate as to why they used the techniques they did or why they did not use other techniques.

In this regard, I also charge you that all persons who may have been present at any time or place mentioned in the case, or who may appear to have some knowledge of the issues in this case, need not be called as witnesses. Both the government and the defense have the same right to subpoena witnesses to testify on their behalf. There is no duty on either side, however, to call a witness whose testimony would be merely cumulative of testimony already in evidence, or who would merely provide additional testimony to facts already in evidence. Nor does the law require that all things mentioned during the course of the trial be produced as exhibits. I remind you, however, that because the law presumes that Mr. Greebel is innocent, the burden of proving his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt is on the government throughout the trial. Mr. Greebel does not have the burden of proving his innocence or of producing any evidence or calling any witnesses at all.

Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Authority: Sand, 4-4 (No Duty to Call Witnesses or Produce Evidence or use Particular Investigative Techniques); Rivera (instruction that uncalled witnesses are equally available); Sand, 6-7 (Witnesses Equally Available).

17. Informal Agreements

You have heard testimony from Alan Geller and Jackson Su, who have been promised by the government that in exchange for testifying truthfully, completely, and fully, they will not be prosecuted for any crimes that they may have admitted either here in court or in interviews with the government. These promises were not a formal order of immunity by the court, but were arranged directly between the witnesses and the government.

The government is permitted to make these kinds of promises and is entitled to call as witnesses people to whom these promises are given. You are instructed that you may convict a defendant on the basis of such a witness' testimony alone, if you find that his testimony proves the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

However, the testimony of a witness who has been promised that he will not be prosecuted or who has been granted immunity for his testimony by the government should be examined by you with greater care than the testimony of an ordinary witness. You should scrutinize it closely to determine whether or not it is colored in such a way as to place guilt upon the defendant in order to further the witness' own interests, because such a witness, confronted with the realization that he can win his own freedom from prosecution by helping to convict another, has a motive to falsify his testimony.

Such testimony should be received by you with suspicion and you may give it such weight, if any, as you believe it deserves.

18. Consider Only this Defendant

You have heard evidence about the involvement of certain other people in the crimes charged in the Superseding Indictment. You may not draw any inference, favorable or unfavorable, towards the government or Mr. Greebel from the fact that certain persons are not on trial before you. It is not your concern that these other individuals are not on trial before you, nor should you speculate as to whether or not they were indicted. You should neither speculate as to the reason these other people are not on trial before you, nor allow their absence as parties to influence in any way your deliberations in this case. Nor should you draw any inference from the fact that any other person is not present at this trial or may or may not be indicted. Your concern is solely the person on trial before you, Mr. Greebel.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Your verdict should be based solely upon the evidence or lack of evidence as to Mr. Greebel, in accordance with my instructions and without regard to whether the guilt of other people has or has not been proven.

Authority: Sand, 2-18 (Jury to Consider Only this Defendant); 3-4 (Failure to Name a Defendant).

19. Approximate Dates

The Superseding Indictment charges that the offenses at issue took place "in or about" and "between" certain dates. The proof need not establish with certainty the exact date of the alleged offenses. The law requires a substantial similarity

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

between the date alleged in the Superseding Indictment and the date established by the evidence.

II. THE CHARGES

I will now turn to the second part of my instructions. In this part, I will instruct you as to the specific elements of the crimes charged that the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt to warrant a finding of guilt in this case.

1. Summary of the Superseding Indictment; Consider Only the Charges; Consider Each Count Separately

I will begin by summarizing for you the two charges alleged in the Superseding Indictment, which as I mentioned is merely a statement of the charges, and is not evidence. Mr. Greebel is not charged with committing any crime other than the offenses contained in the Superseding Indictment.

The Superseding Indictment contains a total of two counts against Mr. Greebel. Each of the two counts charges Mr. Greebel with a different crime related to an entity known as Retrophin. In one of the counts of the Superseding Indictment, Mr. Greebel is charged with conspiracy to commit wire fraud, and in the other count, he is charged with conspiracy to commit securities fraud.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

You must consider each of the two counts of the Superseding Indictment separately, and you must return a separate verdict for each count. Whether you find Mr. Greebel guilty or not guilty as to one offense charged in a count should not affect your verdict as to the offense charged in the other count. For the sake of clarity, I will refer to the two counts as Count One and Count Two.

Authority: Sand, 3-3 (Consider Only the Charges (modified)); 3-6 (One Defendant - Multiple Counts).

2. Knowingly, Willfully, and Intentionally Defined

During these instructions, you will hear me use the terms "knowingly," "willfully," and "intentionally." Therefore, I will define these terms for you.

A. Knowingly

To act "knowingly" means to act intentionally and voluntarily, and not because of ignorance, mistake, accident, negligence, or carelessness, or as a result of being misled or deceived. Whether Mr. Greebel acted knowingly may be proven by his conduct and by evidence of all of the facts and circumstances surrounding the case.

Authority: Sand 3A-1 (Knowingly).

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

B. Willfully

"Willfully" means to act with knowledge that one's conduct is unlawful and with an intent to do something the law forbids; that is to say, with a bad purpose either to disobey or to disregard the law. A defendant's conduct is not "willful" if it was due to negligence, inadvertence, or mistake.

Authority: Sand, 3A-3 (Willfully).

C. Intentionally

A person acts "intentionally" when he acts deliberately and purposefully. That is, the defendant's acts must have been the product of his conscious objective decision rather than the product of a mistake or accident.

Whether a person acted knowingly, willfully, or intentionally is a question of fact for you to determine, like any other fact question. Direct proof of knowledge and fraudulent intent is almost never available. It would be a rare case where it could be shown that a person wrote or stated that as of a given time in the past he committed an act with fraudulent intent. Such direct proof is not required. The ultimate facts of knowledge and criminal intent, though subjective, may be established by circumstantial evidence, based upon a person's outward manifestations, his words, his conduct,

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

his acts and all the surrounding circumstances disclosed by the evidence and the rational or logical inferences that may be drawn therefrom. In either case, the government must prove the elements of the crime charged beyond a reasonable doubt.

Authorities: See Sand, 57-24 (Second Element - Knowledge, Intent and Willfulness for Securities Fraud); 44-5 (Second Element - Participation in Scheme with Intent for Wire Fraud).

COUNT ONE: Conspiracy to Commit Wire Fraud

Count One of the Superseding Indictment charges

Mr. Greebel with conspiracy to commit wire fraud as to Retrophin as follows:

In or about and between February 2011 and September 2014, both dates being approximate and inclusive, within the Eastern District of New York and elsewhere, the defendant EVAN GREEBEL, together with others, did knowingly and intentionally conspire to devise a scheme and artifice to defraud Retrophin, and to obtain money and property from Retrophin by means of materially false and fraudulent pretenses, representations and promises, and for the purpose of executing such scheme and artifice, to transmit and cause to be transmitted by means of wire communication in interstate and foreign commerce writings, signs, signals, pictures and sounds, contrary to Title 18, United States Code, Section 1343.

1. Conspiracy to Commit Wire Fraud

I will now explain what it means to conspire to commit wire fraud. The relevant statute is Title 18, Section 1349 of the United States Code, which provides, in relevant part, that

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

it shall be unlawful for any person to "conspire[] to commit" wire fraud.

A conspiracy is a kind of criminal partnership, at the heart of which is an agreement or understanding by two or more persons to violate other laws. A conspiracy to commit a crime is an entirely separate and different offense from the underlying crime that the conspirators intended to commit. Thus, if a conspiracy exists, the conspiracy is still punishable as a crime, even if it should fail to achieve its purpose of the underlying substantive crime. A defendant may be found guilty of conspiracy even if he was incapable of committing the underlying substantive crime. Consequently, for Mr. Greebel to be guilty of conspiracy, there is no need for the government to prove that he or any other conspirator actually succeeded in their criminal goals or even that they could have succeeded as to the underlying substantive crime. With respect to Count One, the government alleges that Mr. Greebel conspired with others to defraud Retrophin in order to obtain Retrophin assets by wire fraud.

To prove the crime of conspiracy to commit wire fraud, the government must prove two elements beyond a reasonable doubt:

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

First, that Mr. Greebel and at least one other person entered into an agreement to commit wire fraud, a crime I will define for you; and Second, that Mr. Greebel knowingly and intentionally became a member of the conspiracy.

You must reach a unanimous decision in connection with each element. I will now describe these elements.

Authority: Adapted from Sand, 19-2 (Purpose of the Statute); 19-3 (Elements of Conspiracy).

A. First Element: Existence of the Agreement

The first element that the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt for Count One is that Mr. Greebel and at least one other person entered into the charged agreement to commit wire fraud. One person cannot commit a conspiracy alone. Rather, the proof must convince you that at least two persons joined together in a common criminal scheme. The government need not prove that members of the conspiracy met together or entered into any express or formal agreement. You need not find that the alleged conspirators stated, in words or writing, what the scheme was, its object or purpose, or the means by which the scheme was to be accomplished. It is sufficient if the government proves, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the conspirators tacitly came to a mutual understanding to accomplish an unlawful act by means of a joint plan or common design. But proof that people simply met together from time to time and talked about common interests, or engaged in similar conduct, is not enough to establish a criminal agreement.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

You may, of course, find that the existence of an agreement between two or more persons to violate the law has been established by direct proof. But since, by its very nature, a conspiracy is characterized by secrecy to conceal the unlawful agreement, direct proof may not be available. Therefore, you may, if you choose, infer the existence of a conspiracy from the circumstances of this case and the conduct of the parties involved. In a very real sense, then, in the context of conspiracy cases, actions often speak louder than words. In determining whether an agreement existed here, you may consider the actions and statements of all those you find to be participants in the conspiracy as proof that a common design existed to act together for the accomplishment of the unlawful purpose stated in the Superseding Indictment.

Authority: Adapted from Sand, 19-4 (Existence of Agreement).

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

B. Second Element: Membership in the Conspiracy

The second element the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt for Count One is that Mr. Greebel knowingly and intentionally became a member in the charged conspiracy. I have explained to you what it means to act knowingly and intentionally, and I refer you to those instructions. (See pp. 33-34.) As I explained, a person acts knowingly and intentionally if he acts voluntarily, deliberately, and purposefully, and not because of ignorance, mistake, accident, negligence or carelessness. In other words, did Mr. Greebel participate in the conspiracy with knowledge of its unlawful purpose and with the specific intention of furthering its business or objective? Knowledge and intent may be inferred from a secretive or irregular manner in which activities are carried out. Whether a defendant acted knowingly may be proven by the defendant's conduct and by all of the facts and circumstances surrounding the case.

In order for Mr. Greebel to be deemed a member of a conspiracy, he need not have had a stake in the venture or its outcome. While proof of a financial or other interest in the outcome of a scheme is not required, if you find that Mr. Greebel did have such an interest, it is a factor you may properly consider in determining whether or not he was a member of the conspiracy charged in the Superseding Indictment.

Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Mr. Greebel's participation in the conspiracy must be established by independent evidence of his own acts or statements, as well as those of the other alleged co-conspirators, and the reasonable inferences that may be drawn from them.

A defendant's knowledge may be inferred from the facts proved. In that connection, I instruct you that, to become a member of the conspiracy, a defendant need not have been apprised of all of the activities of all members of the conspiracy. Moreover, a defendant need not have been fully informed as to all of the details, or the scope, of the conspiracy in order to justify an inference of knowledge on his part. In addition, a defendant need not have joined in all of the conspiracy's unlawful objectives.

Each member of a conspiracy may perform separate and distinct acts and may perform them at different times. Some conspirators play major roles, while others play minor parts in the scheme. An equal role is not what the law requires. Even a single act may be sufficient to draw a defendant within the ambit of the conspiracy. The key inquiry is simply whether a defendant joined the conspiracy charged with an awareness of at least some of the basic aims and purposes of the unlawful agreement and with the intent to help it succeed.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

In considering whether a defendant participated in a conspiracy, be advised that a conspirator's liability is not measured by the extent or duration of his participation as he need not have been a member of the conspiracy for the entire time of its existence. I caution you that mere knowledge or acquiescence, without participation, in the unlawful plan is not sufficient. Moreover, the fact that the acts of a defendant, without knowledge, merely happen to further the purposes or objectives of the conspiracy, does not make the defendant a member. Mere presence during the commission of a crime, even when coupled with knowledge that a crime is being committed, is insufficient to prove membership in a conspiracy. More is required under the law.

What is required is that a defendant must have participated with knowledge of at least some of the purposes or objectives of the conspiracy and with the intention of aiding in the accomplishment of those unlawful ends. In sum, the defendant, with an understanding of the unlawful character of the conspiracy, must have intentionally engaged, advised or assisted in it for the purpose of furthering the illegal undertaking.

Draft 2 December 12, 2017

If you find that the government has not proven either of these elements beyond a reasonable doubt, then you must find Mr. Greebel not guilty of Count One.

Authority: Adapted from Sand, 19-6 (Membership in the Conspiracy).

C. Multiple Conspiracies

In this case, Mr. Greebel contends that the government's proof fails to show the existence of only one overall conspiracy in Count One. Rather, Mr. Greebel claims that there were actually several separate and independent conspiracies with various groups of members.

Whether there existed a single unlawful agreement, or many such agreements, or indeed, no agreement at all, is a question of fact for you, the jury, to determine in accordance with the instructions I am about to give you.

When two or more people join together to further one common unlawful design or purpose, a single conspiracy exists. By way of contrast, multiple conspiracies exist when there are separate unlawful agreements to achieve distinct purposes.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Proof of several separate and independent conspiracies is not proof of the single, overall conspiracy charged in Count One of the Superseding Indictment, unless one of the conspiracies proved happens to be the single conspiracy described in Count One.

You may find that there was a single conspiracy despite the fact that there were changes in either personnel, or activities, or both, so long as you find that some of the co-conspirators continued to act for the entire duration of the conspiracy for the purpose charged in the indictment. The fact that the members of a conspiracy are not always identical does not necessarily imply that separate conspiracies exist.

On the other hand, if you find that the conspiracy charged in Count One did not exist, you cannot find Mr. Greebel guilty of the single conspiracy charged in Count One. This is so even if you find that some conspiracy other than the one charged in Count One existed, even though the purposes of both conspiracies may have been the same and even though there may have been some overlap in membership.

Similarly, if you find that Mr. Greebel was a member of another conspiracy, and not the one charged in Count One,

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

then you must acquit Mr. Greebel of the conspiracy charged in Count One.

Therefore, what you must do is determine whether the conspiracy charged in Count One of the Superseding Indictment existed. If it did, you then must determine the nature of the conspiracy and who were its members.

Authority: Sand, 19-5 (Multiple Conspiracies).

D. Venue

I have explained to you the elements the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt as to Count One. In addition, the government must prove that venue is proper in the Eastern District of New York. Unlike the elements of conspiracy which the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt, the government must prove that venue is proper by a preponderance of the evidence. To establish a fact by a preponderance of the evidence means to prove that the fact is more likely true than not. A preponderance of the evidence means the greater weight of the evidence, both direct and circumstantial. It refers to the quality and persuasiveness of the evidence, not to the quantity of evidence.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Thus, as to the conspiracy charged in Count One, the government must prove that it is more likely than not that the agreement was formed or that an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy was committed in the Eastern District of New York, which includes the boroughs of Queens, Brooklyn (also known as Kings County), Staten Island (also known as Richmond County), and the counties of Suffolk and Nassau, New York. In this regard, the government need not prove that the crime charged was committed in the Eastern District of New York or that Mr. Greebel or any alleged co-conspirator was even physically present here. It is sufficient to satisfy the venue requirement if an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy occurred within the Eastern District of New York. This includes not just acts by Mr. Greebel or his co-conspirators, but also acts that the conspirators caused others to take that materially furthered the ends of the conspiracy.

Therefore, if you find that it is more likely than not that an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy took place in the Eastern District of New York, the government has satisfied its burden of proof as to venue for Count One.

Again, I caution you that the preponderance of the evidence standard applies only to venue. The government must

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

prove each of the elements of both counts beyond a reasonable doubt.

2. Wire Fraud: Definition and Elements

I will now define wire fraud, which is alleged to be the object of the conspiracy charged in Count One involving Retrophin. The relevant statute regarding wire fraud is Section 1343 of Title 18 of the United States Code, which provides that:

Whoever, having devised or intending to devise any scheme or artifice to defraud, or for obtaining money or property by means of false or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises, transmits or causes to be transmitted by means of wire, radio, or television communication in interstate or foreign commerce, any writings, signs, signals, pictures or sounds for the purpose of executing such scheme or artifice, shall be [guilty of a crime].

Mr. Greebel is not charged with wire fraud itself, but with conspiracy to commit wire fraud. Thus, the government need not prove that Mr. Greebel actually committed wire fraud, but, in order for you to find Mr. Greebel guilty of Count One, it must prove that Mr. Greebel conspired with at least one other person with the intent to commit each element of wire fraud.<sup>1</sup> I

<sup>1</sup> "Second Circuit case law teaches that for a defendant to be convicted of conspiring to commit a specific intent crime, the Government must prove that the defendant had specific intent to violate the substantive statute, and that the intended future conduct the conspirators agreed upon includes all elements of the substantive crime, which in this case would thus include the

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

will now describe the elements of wire fraud, as they relate to the conspiracy charged in Count One.

A. First Element - Existence of a Scheme or Artifice to Defraud

The first element of wire fraud is that there was a scheme or artifice to defraud by means of false or fraudulent pretenses, representations or promises. Thus, because Count One charges a conspiracy to commit wire fraud, the government must prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that Mr. Greebel, along with at least one other person, conspired to defraud Retrophin by means of false or fraudulent pretenses, representations or promises.

A "scheme or artifice" is simply a plan for the accomplishment of an objective. "Fraud" is a general term which embraces all the various means that an individual can devise and that are used by an individual to gain an advantage over another specific intent to defraud." United States v. Lucarelli, 476 F. Supp. 2d 163, 170 (D. Conn.), adhered to on reconsideration, 490 F. Supp. 2d 295 (D. Conn. 2007) (quotation marks omitted) (citing, inter alia, United States v. Ceballos, 340 F.3d 115, 124 (2d Cir. 2003)); United States v. Carlo, 507 F.3d 799, 801 (2d Cir. 2007) ("To sustain a conviction for wire fraud . . . and conspiracy to commit such wire fraud, the government must prove that the defendant acted with specific intent to obtain money or property by means of a fraudulent scheme that contemplated harm to the property interests of the victim." (emphasis added)).

Jury Instructions - Public

by false representations, suggestions, suppression or omission of the truth, or deliberate disregard for the truth.

A "scheme or artifice to defraud" for the purposes of the wire fraud statute is any plan, device, or course of action designed to obtain money or property by means of false representations or omissions. Thus, a "scheme to defraud" is a plan to deprive another of money or property by trick, deceit, deception or swindle, or overreaching. A statement, representation, claim, or document is false if it is untrue when made and was known at the time to be untrue by the person making it or causing it to be made. A representation or statement is fraudulent if it was falsely made with the intention to deceive.

The expression of an opinion not honestly entertained may constitute a false or fraudulent representation. Deceitful statements of half-truths or the concealment or omission of material facts, when under a duty to disclose these material facts, may also constitute false or fraudulent representations. A duty to disclose can arise in a situation where a defendant makes partial or ambiguous statements that require further disclosure in order to avoid being misleading.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> A "duty to disclose" may be imposed not only as the result of a particular relationship, but also "where a defendant makes

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

A duty to disclose material facts may also arise in the context of a fiduciary relationship, such as the attorney-client relationship. As a result of this relationship, an attorney must act on behalf of, and for the exclusive benefit of, the attorney's client, rather than for the benefit of the attorney or any other party.<sup>3</sup> I instruct you that a fiduciary owes a duty to disclose all material facts concerning the transaction entrusted to it. The concealment by a fiduciary of material information which he or she is under a duty to disclose to another, under circumstances where the non-disclosure can or does result in harm to the other, can be a fraudulent representation in violation of the wire fraud statute, if the partial or ambiguous statements that require further disclosure in order to avoid being misleading." United States v. Autuori, 212 F.3d 105, 119 (2d Cir. 2000) (noting also that "an omission can violate the fraud statute only in the context of a duty to disclose[] but a fiduciary duty is not the sine qua non of fraudulent omissions . . .").

<sup>3</sup> C.I.R. v. Banks, 543 U.S. 426, 436 (2005) ("Even where the attorney exercises independent judgment without supervision by, or consultation with, the client, the attorney, as an agent, is obligated to act solely on behalf of, and for the exclusive benefit of, the client-principal, rather than for the benefit of the attorney or any other party." (citations omitted)); In re Hayes, 183 F.3d 162, 168 (2d Cir. 1999) ("Of course, the attorney-client relationship entails one of the highest fiduciary duties imposed by law . . . including honoring the clients' interest over the lawyer's.") (citing In re Cooperman, 83 N.Y.2d 465, 472 (1994) (internal quotation marks omitted)).

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

government has proven beyond a reasonable doubt the other elements of the offense.<sup>4</sup>

The fraudulent representation must relate to a material fact or matter. A material fact in the context of wire fraud is one that reasonably would be expected to be of concern to a reasonable and prudent person in relying upon the representation or statement in making a decision. A scheme to defraud does not exist when the alleged false representations or omissions were not directed to the nature of the bargain.

The deception need not be premised upon spoken or written words alone. The arrangement of words, or the circumstances in which they are used may convey a false and deceptive appearance. If there is intentional deception, the manner in which it is accomplished does not matter.

It is not necessary that the government prove that the defendant actually realized any gain from the scheme or that the intended victim actually suffered any loss.

<sup>4</sup> United States v. Wolfson, 642 F.3d 293, 296 (2d Cir. 2011) (applying this instruction to securities fraud); United States v. Szur, 289 F.3d 200, 209-12 (2d Cir. 2002) (applying this instruction to wire fraud).

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

B. Second Element - Participation in Scheme with Intent

The second element of wire fraud is that the defendant participated in the scheme to defraud knowingly, willfully and with the specific intent to defraud.

I already instructed you as to the meaning of "knowingly" and "willfully." I refer you to those instructions as they apply here also. (See pp. 33-34.) For the purposes of the wire fraud statute, an "intent to defraud" means to act knowingly and with specific intent to deceive for the purpose of causing some financial or property loss to another. Thus, for the purposes of the conspiracy charged in Count One, in order to establish that Mr. Greebel conspired to defraud Retrophin as charged in Count One, the government must prove that he intended to deprive Retrophin of money or property.

I will remind you, however, that the question of whether a person acted knowingly, willfully and with intent to defraud is a question of fact for you to determine, like any other fact question. This question involves Mr. Greebel's state of mind. As I said before, direct proof of knowledge and fraudulent intent is not necessary. The ultimate facts of knowledge and criminal intent, though subjective, may be established by circumstantial evidence, based upon a person's outward manifestations, his or her words, his or her conduct, his or her acts and all the surrounding circumstances disclosed by the evidence and the rational or logical inferences that may be drawn from them. Circumstantial evidence, if believed, is of no less value than direct evidence.

Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Under the wire fraud statute, even false representations or statements, or omissions of material facts, do not amount to a fraud unless done with fraudulent intent. Fraudulent intent is lacking where the falsity of the alleged representations were not shown to be capable of affecting the allegedly defrauded party's understanding of the bargain nor of influencing his assessment of the value of the bargain to him.

Additionally, however misleading or deceptive a plan may be, it is not fraudulent if it was devised or carried out in good faith. An honest belief in the truth of the representations made by a defendant is a complete defense, however inaccurate the statements may turn out to be. A defendant, however, has no burden to establish a defense of good faith.

Ct. 2487, and cert. denied sub nom. Resnick v. United States, 136 S. Ct. 2488, and cert. denied sub nom. Kergil v. United States, 136 S. Ct. 2488 (2016) ("It is not required that the victims of the scheme in fact suffered harm, but the government must, at a minimum, prove that defendants contemplated some actual harm or injury to their victims." (internal quotation marks and citations omitted).)

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

C. Third Element - Use of the Wires

The third element of wire fraud is the use of an interstate or international wire communication in furtherance of the scheme to defraud. The wire communication must pass between two or more states, or it must pass between the United States and a foreign country. A wire communication includes a wire transfer of funds between banks in different states, telephone calls, emails and facsimiles between two different states.

The item sent through the wires need not itself contain a fraudulent representation. However, it must further or assist in the carrying out of the scheme to defraud. It is not necessary for the defendant to be directly or personally involved in the wire communication, as long as the communication was reasonably foreseeable in the execution of the alleged scheme to defraud in which the defendant is accused of participating.

As I mentioned, the government need not prove that Mr. Greebel actually committed wire fraud, the unlawful act charged as the object of the conspiracy in Count One. Rather, I remind you that what the government must prove each one of the following elements beyond a reasonable doubt:

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

First, that two or more persons entered into an agreement to commit wire fraud; and Second, that Mr. Greebel knowingly and intentionally became a member of the conspiracy.

In addition, as I described earlier, the government must prove that venue is proper by a preponderance of the evidence.

Authority: Sand, 44-7 (Use of the Wires).

COUNT TWO: Conspiracy to Commit Securities Fraud

Count Two of the Superseding Indictment charges Mr. Greebel with conspiracy to commit securities fraud in connection with Retrophin as follows:

In or about and between November 2012 and September 2014, both dates being approximate and inclusive, within the Eastern District of New York and elsewhere, the defendant EVAN GREEBEL, together with others, did knowingly and willfully conspire to use and employ manipulative and deceptive devices and contrivances, contrary to Rule 10b-5 of the Rules and Regulations of the United States Securities and Exchange Commission, Title 17, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 240.10b-5, by: (a) employing devices, schemes and artifices to defraud; (b) making untrue statements of material fact and omitting to state material facts necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; and (c) engaging in acts, practices and courses of business which would and did operate as a fraud and deceit upon investors and potential investors in Retrophin, in connection with the purchase and sale of securities of Retrophin, directly and indirectly, by use of means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce and the mails, contrary to Title 15, United States Code, Sections 78j(b) and 78ff.

In furtherance of the conspiracy and to effect its objects, within the Eastern District of New York and elsewhere, the defendant EVAN GREEBEL, together with others, committed and caused to be committed, among others, the following overt acts:

a. On or about December 12, 2012, Evan Greebel sent an email to [Marek Biestek], attaching six stock purchase agreements, and stated, in part, "attached are purchase agreements for the acquisition of the [unrestricted] stock. . . . Please ask each person to sign the last page and return it to me."

b. On or about December 13, 2012, Evan Greebel sent an email to [Marek Biestek] and another one of the seven employees and contractors who received unrestricted or free trading shares, and stated, in part, "Please send me an email confirming the following: I represent that I am not an officer, a director, or holder of 10% or more of the outstanding equity securities of Desert Gateway and do not, alone or together with any other person, exercise control over Desert Gateway."

c. On or about December 17, 2012, Martin Shkreli sent an email to all employees, copying six of the seven employees and contractors who received unrestricted and free trading shares, and stated that Retrophin now had four employees and that everyone else, including the employees and contractors who received the unrestricted or free trading shares, were no longer employees or consultants to Retrophin or MSMB even though they could continue using Retrophin's office space as a courtesy. Martin Shkreli then forwarded this email to Evan Greebel.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

d. On or about December 20, 2012, Evan Greebel sent an email to Martin Shkreli, attaching a Schedule 13D, and stated, "Attached is a draft of the 13D. We should discuss."

e. On or about December 20, Martin Shkreli filed a Schedule 13D with the SEC that failed to disclose his control over any of the unrestricted or free trading shares.

f. On or about January 2, 2013, Martin Shkreli sent an email to Evan Greebel requesting Evan Greebel's thoughts on a draft email that Martin Shkreli wanted to send to one of the seven employees and consultants who received unrestricted or free trading shares and who was selling his RTRX stock. In the draft email, Martin Shkreli stated, in part, "I have decided to commence litigation against you for failing to honor the agreement we made in our office on December 10th. You agreed to work for MSMB . . . Instead you have failed to come to the office and will not even return my telephone calls." Less than thirty minutes later, Evan Greebel replied to Martin Shkreli, and stated, "Very risky given what you[r] agreement was - could be opening a much bigger can of worms."

g. On or about January 18, 2013, GREEBEL sent an email to Martin Shkreli, and stated, in part, "I just need the [$100,000] and can be patient again; ive [sic] gotten you out of paying a lot of people, I cant [sic] be left stuck at this point on this." Later that day, GREEBEL sent another email, and stated, in part, "[I've] repeadtedy [sic] done all you ask and very rarely chase you for money."

h. On or about February 19, 2013, Martin Shkreli filed an amended Schedule 13D with the SEC that failed to disclose his control over any of the unrestricted or free trading shares.

i. On or about March 8, 2013, Evan Greebel sent an email to Martin Shkreli, and stated, "[Michael Fearnow] and the 'purchasers' are signing an amendment to their purchase agreement and in the amendment the

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

'purchaser' is directing [Michael Fearnow] to have the stock delivered to the designated people."

j. On or about April 10, 2013, Evan Greebel sent an email to [Michael Fearnow] and Martin Shkreli, and stated, in part, "The 50k [unrestricted or free trading] shares that were owed to [Marek Biestek] should be broken down as follows . . . ."

k. On or about May 9, 2013, in response to an email from Evan Greebel requesting the source of unrestricted or free trading shares to settle a dispute with a defrauded MSMB Healthcare investor, Martin Shkreli stated, "Take from anyone - I don't care - do the math?"

l. On or about January 15, 2014, GREEBEL sent an email to Martin Shkreli concerning a request by Investor 1 for, inter alia, 100,000 unrestricted or free trading shares and stated, in part, "As you may recall, we discussed that [Marek Biestek] could transfer 100k shares of stock to [Investor 1] and we could have the board approve a 100k grant of new RTRX stock to [Marek Biestek]." In response, Martin Shkreli stated, in part, "Smarter thing to do is to give him 200K restricted stock and have him swap any and all he wants for free trading from our employees."

1. Conspiracy

I have already instructed you on conspiracy as it relates to Count One, conspiracy to commit wire fraud. (See page 33.) The same instructions regarding conspiracy apply to Count Two, which charges a conspiracy to commit securities fraud. As I have previously instructed you, a conspiracy requires that the government prove, beyond a reasonable doubt:

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

First, that two or more persons entered into an agreement to commit a crime, which in this count is securities fraud; and Second, that the defendant, Mr. Greebel, knowingly and intentionally became a member of the conspiracy.

There are, however, two additional elements the government must prove in order for you to find Mr. Greebel guilty of the securities fraud conspiracy charged in Count Two. Specifically, the government must prove, beyond a reasonable doubt:

Third, that one of the members of the conspiracy committed at least one of the overt acts charged in the Superseding Indictment. In order for the government to satisfy this element, it is not required that all of the overt acts alleged in the Superseding Indictment be proven or that the overt act was committed at precisely the time alleged in the Superseding Indictment. It is sufficient if you are convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the overt act occurred at or about the time and place stated. Similarly, you need not find that Mr. Greebel himself committed the overt act. It is sufficient for the government to show that one of the conspirators knowingly committed an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy, since, in the eyes of the law, such an act becomes the act of all of the members of the conspiracy.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

And Fourth, the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that at least one overt act was in furtherance of some object or purpose of the conspiracy as charged in the Superseding Indictment. In order for the government to satisfy this element, it must prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that at least one overt act was knowingly and willfully done, by at least one conspirator, in furtherance of some object or purpose of the conspiracy as charged in the Superseding Indictment. In this regard, you should bear in mind that the overt act, standing alone, may be an innocent, lawful act. Frequently, however, an apparently innocent act sheds its harmless character if it is a step in carrying out, promoting, aiding or assisting the conspiratorial scheme. Therefore, you are instructed that the overt act does not have to be an act which, in and of itself, is criminal or constitutes an objective of the conspiracy.

Authority: Sand, 19-7 (Third Element: Commission of Overt Act); 19-8 (Fourth Element: Commission of Overt Act in Furtherance of Conspiracy).

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

As with conspiracy to commit wire fraud, a defendant may be found guilty of conspiracy to commit securities fraud even if he was incapable of committing the underlying substantive crime of securities fraud. Consequently, for a defendant to be guilty of conspiracy, there is no need for the government to prove that he or any other conspirator actually succeeded in their criminal goals or even that they could have succeeded. However, the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Greebel conspired with at least one other person with the intent of committing each element of securities fraud.

****

In addition to these four elements, the government must also prove venue by a preponderance of the evidence. I have already instructed you about venue with regard to Count One (see p. 43), and those instructions apply here as well. Again, I caution you that the preponderance of the evidence standard applies only to establishing that venue. The government must prove each of the elements beyond a reasonable doubt.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

2. Securities Fraud

The criminal object of the conspiracy charged in Count Two is Securities Fraud. I will now instruct you on the law regarding the underlying crime of securities fraud. The relevant statute is Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. That law provides in relevant part that:

It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, by the use of any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce or of the mails, or any facility of any national securities exchange -
(b) To use or employ, in connection with the purchase or sale of any security registered on a national securities exchange or any security not so registered . . . any manipulative or deceptive device or contrivance in contravention of such rules and regulations as the [Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC")] may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors.

Based on its authority under this statute, the SEC enacted Rule 10b-5, which provides:

It shall be unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, by the use of any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce, or of the mails or of any facility of any national securities exchange,
(a) To employ any device, scheme, or artifice to defraud,
(b) To make any untrue statement of a material fact or to omit to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading, or
(c) To engage in any act, practice, or course of business which operates or would operate as a fraud or

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

deceit upon any person, in connection with the purchase or sale of any security.

In order for you to convict Mr. Greebel of conspiracy to commit securities fraud charged in Count Two, the government must prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that Mr. Greebel conspired to commit each element of securities fraud, which I will now describe.

1. First Element - Fraudulent Act

The first element of securities fraud is a fraudulent act. Thus, for purposes of the conspiracy to commit securities fraud charged in Count Two, the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that, in connection with the purchase or sale of a security in Retrophin, Mr. Greebel conspired with at least one other person to:

- (1) employ a device, scheme or artifice to defraud, or
- (2) made an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading, or
- (3) engage in an act, practice or course of business that operated, or would operate, as a fraud or deceit upon any

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

person in connection with the purchase or sale of Retrophin securities.

Let me now explain some of these terms.

- Device, Scheme, or Artifice to Defraud: For the purposes of securities fraud, a device, scheme or artifice to defraud is a plan for the accomplishment of a fraud. Fraud is a general term that embraces all efforts and means that individuals devise to take advantage of others. The fraudulent or deceitful conduct alleged need not relate to the investment value of the securities involved in this case. Manipulative conduct that is designed to deceive or defraud investors by controlling or artificially affecting the price of securities is prohibited. An essential element of manipulation of securities is the deception of investors into believing that the prices at which they purchase and sell securities are determined by the natural interplay of supply and demand.<sup>5</sup>

<sup>5</sup> ATSI Comms., Inc. v. Shaar Fund, Ltd., 493 F.3d 87, 99-100 (2d Cir. 2007) ("Manipulation is virtually a term of art when used in connection with the securities markets [and]. . . refers generally to practices . . . that are intended to mislead investors by artificially affecting market activity . . . manipulation connotes intentional or willful conduct designed to deceive or defraud investors by controlling or artificially affecting the price of securities. The deception arises from

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

- False Statements and Omissions: A statement, representation, claim, or document is false if it is untrue when made and was then known to be untrue by the person making it or causing it to be made. A representation or statement is fraudulent if it was made with the intention to deceive. False or fraudulent statements under the statute may include the concealment or omission of material facts in a manner that makes what is said or represented deliberately misleading. For a statement to be false because it conceals or omits material information, there must be a duty to disclose such information. As I have previously instructed you, this duty may arise because of a relationship, such as a fiduciary relationship, or because a defendant has made a partial or ambiguous statements that require further disclosure in order to avoid being misleading.<sup>6</sup>

the fact that investors are misled to believe that prices at which they purchase and sell securities are determined by the natural interplay of supply and demand, not rigged by manipulators." (internal quotation marks and citations omitted)).

<sup>6</sup> See United States v. Wolfson, 642 F.3d 293 (2d Cir. 2011) (approving of an instruction, included in charges above, that "The concealment by a fiduciary of material information which he or she is under a duty to disclose to another, under circumstances where the nondisclosure can or does result in harm

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

- "In Connection With": The "in connection with" aspect of this element is satisfied if there is some nexus or relation between allegedly fraudulent conduct and the sale or purchase of securities. Fraudulent conduct may be "in connection with" the purchase or sale of securities if the alleged fraudulent conduct "touched upon" a securities transaction.

It is no defense to an overall scheme to defraud that Mr. Greebel may not have been involved in the scheme from its inception or may have played only a minor role with no contact with the investors and purchasers of the securities in question. Nor is it necessary for you to find that Mr. Greebel was the actual seller or offeror of the securities. For the purposes of the "in connection with" requirement, it is sufficient if you find that the government has proven, beyond a reasonable doubt, that Mr. Greebel conspired to engage in a fraudulent scheme that involved the purchase or sale of Retrophin securities. By the same token, the government need not prove that Mr.

to the other is a [b]reach of the fiduciary duty and can be a violation of the federal securities laws, if the government has proven beyond a reasonable doubt the other elements of this offense").

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Greebel personally made an alleged misrepresentation or that he personally omitted a material fact necessary to make the statements made not misleading. It is sufficient if the government proves beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Greebel conspired with at least one other person to cause the statement to be made, or the fact to be omitted. With regard to the alleged misrepresentations and omissions, you must determine whether the statement was true or false when it was made, and, in the case of alleged omissions, whether the omission was misleading.

- Material Fact: If you find that the government has established beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Greebel conspired to make a false statement, or omitted to state or disclose a fact in connection with the purchase or sale of any securities, you must next determine whether the fact misstated or omitted was material under the circumstances and that there was a duty to disclose the omitted information. "A misrepresentation is material under Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 where there is a substantial likelihood that a reasonable investor would find the misrepresentation important in making an investment decision." If you find that Mr.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Greebel conspired to make a material misrepresentation or to omit a material fact when there was a duty to disclose, it does not matter whether the intended victims were gullible buyers or sophisticated investors, because the securities laws protect the gullible and unsophisticated as well as the experienced investor.

Nor does it matter whether or not the alleged unlawful conduct was successful, or whether or not Mr. Greebel profited or received any benefits as a result of the alleged conspiracy. Success is not an element of the crime charged.

Authorities: Sand, 57-21 (First Element - Fraudulent Act); United States v. Litvak, 808 F.3d 160, 175 (2d Cir. 2015) (citations omitted) (defining material misrepresentations).

2. Second Element - Knowledge, Intent and Willfulness

The second element of securities fraud is that a defendant acted knowingly, willfully, and with intent to defraud. Where, as in this case, a defendant is charged with conspiracy to commit securities fraud, the government must prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant conspired knowingly, willfully, and with intent to defraud.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

I have already defined "knowingly" and "willfully" for you, and I refer you to those earlier definitions (see pp. 33-34).

The definition of an "intent to defraud" in the context of the securities laws is slightly different than the requirement for intent for wire fraud. For the purposes of securities fraud and the conspiracy to commit securities fraud charged in Count Two, "intent to defraud" means to act knowingly and with intent to deceive.

The question of whether a person acted knowingly, willfully and with intent to defraud is a question of fact for you to determine, like any other fact question. This question involves one's state of mind.

Direct proof of knowledge and fraudulent intent is almost never available. It would be a rare case where it could be shown that a person wrote or stated that, as of a given time in the past, he committed an act with fraudulent intent. Such direct proof is not required.

Under the anti-fraud statutes, even false representations or omissions of material facts do not amount to a fraud unless done with fraudulent intent. However misleading or deceptive a plan may be, it is not fraudulent if it was devised or carried out in good faith. An honest belief in the truth of the representations made by a defendant is a complete defense, however inaccurate the statements may turn out to be.

Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Authority: Sand, 57-24 (Knowledge, Intent, and Willfulness); United States v. Litvak, 808 F.3d 160, 178-79 (2d Cir. 2015) (explaining that "intent to harm" is not an element of securities fraud).

3. Third Element - Instrumentality of Interstate Commerce

The third and final element of securities fraud is the use of the mails or any means or instrumentalities of transportation or communication in interstate commerce in furtherance of the scheme to defraud. This would include the use of a telephone, a bank wire transfer or an email sent over the Internet that traveled across state lines.

It is not necessary that Mr. Greebel be directly or personally involved in any mailing, wire, or use of an instrumentality of interstate commerce. The government must, however, prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Greebel conspired to engage in conduct which he knew or reasonably could foresee would naturally and probably result in the use of interstate means of communication.

When one does an act with the knowledge that the use of interstate means of communication will follow in the ordinary

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

course of business, or where such use reasonably can be foreseen, even though not actually intended, then he causes such means to be used.

It is not necessary that the items sent through interstate means of communication contain the fraudulent material, or anything criminal or objectionable. The interstate means of communication may be entirely innocent.

The use of interstate communications need not be central to the execution of the scheme, and may even be incidental to it. All that is required is that the use of the interstate communications bear some relation to the object of the scheme or fraudulent conduct. In fact, the actual offer or sale need not be accomplished by the use of interstate communications, so long as the defendant is still engaged in actions that are a part of the fraudulent scheme when interstate communications are used.

Authority: Sand, 57-25 (Third Element - Instrumentality of Interstate Commerce).

* * * * *

In sum, to find Mr. Greebel guilty of conspiracy to commit securities fraud as charged in Count One,

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

you must find that the government has proven, beyond a reasonable doubt, the following:

First, that two or more persons entered into an agreement to commit securities fraud;

Second, that the defendant knowingly and intentionally became a member of the conspiracy;

Third, that one of the members of the conspiracy knowingly committed at least one of the overt acts charged in the Superseding Indictment; and

Fourth, that the overt act or acts that you find were committed were done specifically to further some objective of the securities fraud conspiracy.

In addition, you must find that the government has established that venue for Count Two is proper by a preponderance of the evidence.

3. Conscious Avoidance

As I explained, for purposes of both Counts One and Two, the Government is required to prove that the defendant knowingly and intentionally became a member of the conspiracy and that the object of the conspiracy was to commit wire fraud for Count One and securities fraud for Count Two. In determining whether the defendant acted knowingly with respect to the object of the conspiracy, you may consider whether the defendant deliberately closed his eyes to what would otherwise have been obvious to him.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

If you find beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was aware that there was a high probability that his co-conspirators' objective was to violate the law as charged in the Superseding Indictment but that the defendant deliberately avoided confirming this fact, you may treat this deliberate avoidance of positive knowledge as the equivalent of knowledge of the object of the charged conspiracy. However, if you find that the defendant actually believed that he or his co-conspirators were acting in a lawful manner, he may not be convicted of the charge. I also remind you that guilty knowledge may not be established by demonstrating that the defendant was merely negligent, foolish, or mistaken. There is a difference between intentionally participating in the conspiracy and knowing the objects of the conspiracy.

"Conscious avoidance" or "willful blindness" as I have described it cannot be used as a basis for finding that the defendant intentionally joined the conspiracy. It is logically impossible for a defendant to join the conspiracy unless he or she knows the fact that the conspiracy exists.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

However, if you find beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant chose to participate in a joint undertaking, you may consider whether the defendant deliberately avoided confirming an otherwise obvious fact: that the purpose of the partnership he joined was to violate the law as charged in the Superseding Indictment.

Authority: Sand, 3A-2 (Conscious Avoidance); United States v. Svoboda, 347 F.3d 471, 480 (2d Cir. 2003).

4. Definition of "Affiliate"

An affiliate of an issuer is a person that directly, or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controls, or is controlled by, or is under common control with, such issuer.<sup>7</sup> Affiliates of an issuer include, but are not limited to, officers, directors, and controlling shareholders in that issuer. "Control" means the power to direct the management and policies of the company in question, whether through the ownership of voting securities, by contract, or otherwise.<sup>8</sup>

III. Defenses

1. Good Faith

Good faith is a complete defense to the charges in this case. If you conclude that Mr. Greebel believed, in good faith, that he was acting properly, even if he was mistaken in that belief, and even if others were injured by his conduct, there would be no crime. Similarly, if you believe that Mr. Greebel believed in the truth of the representations that he made, then it does not make any difference if the representations were untrue. The burden of establishing lack of good faith and criminal intent rests on the government. A defendant is under no burden to prove his good faith; rather, the government must prove bad faith or knowledge of falsity beyond a reasonable doubt.

Authority: Sand, 8-1 (Good Faith).

IV. CLOSING INSTRUCTIONS

I have now outlined for you the rules of law applicable to the charges in this case and the processes by which you should weigh the evidence and determine the facts. In a few minutes, you will retire to the jury room for your deliberations.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

1. Selection of a Foreperson

When you retire, you will choose one member of the jury as your foreperson. That person will preside over the deliberations and speak for you here in open court. In order for your deliberations to proceed in an orderly fashion, you must have a foreperson, but of course, his or her opinion or vote are not entitled to any greater weight than that of any other juror.

2. Verdict & Deliberations

The government, to prevail, must prove the essential elements by the required degree of proof, as already explained in these instructions. If the government succeeds, your verdict should be guilty as to the count; if it fails, your verdict should be not guilty as to the count. To report a verdict, it must be unanimous.

Your function is to weigh the evidence in the case and determine whether or not the defendant is guilty, based solely upon such evidence.

Each juror is entitled to his or her opinion; each should, however, exchange views with his or her fellow jurors. That is the very purpose of jury deliberation – to discuss and consider the evidence; to listen to the views of fellow jurors;

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

to present your individual views; to consult with one another; and to reach an agreement based solely and wholly on the evidence – if you can do so without violence to your own individual judgment.

Each of you must decide the case for yourself, after consideration, with your fellow jurors, of the evidence in the case.

But you should not hesitate to change an opinion that, after discussion with your fellow jurors, appears erroneous. However, if, after carefully considering all the evidence and the arguments of your fellow jurors, you entertain a conscientious view that differs from the others, you are not to yield your conviction simply because you are outnumbered.

Your final vote must reflect your conscientious conviction as to how the issues should be decided. Your verdict, whether guilty or not guilty, must be unanimous.

As you deliberate, your function is to weigh the evidence in the case and to determine whether the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, solely upon the basis of such evidence. Under your oath as jurors, you cannot allow a consideration of the punishment that may be imposed upon the defendant, if he is convicted, to influence your verdict, or in any way enter into your deliberations. The duty of imposing punishment rests exclusively with the court.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

In addition, during your deliberations, you must not communicate with or provide any information to anyone by any means about this case. You may not use any electronic device or media, such as the telephone, a cell phone, smart phone, iPhone, Blackberry or computer, the internet, any internet service, any text or instant messaging service, any internet chat room, blog, or website such as Facebook, MySpace, Instagram, LinkedIn, YouTube, or Twitter, to communicate to anyone any information about this case or to conduct any research about this case. In other words, you cannot talk to anyone on the phone, correspond with anyone, or electronically communicate with anyone about this case, except with your fellow jurors in the jury room during deliberations.

Along the same lines, you should not try to access any information about the case or do research on any issue that arose during the trial from any outside source, including dictionaries, reference books, or anything on the Internet. Information that you may find on the Internet or in a printed reference might be incorrect or incomplete. In our court system, it is important that you not be influenced by anyone or anything outside this courtroom. Your sworn duty is to decide this case solely and wholly on the evidence that was presented to you in this courtroom.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

Authority: Sand, 9-7 (Verdict); 2-21 (Contact with Others); 9-1 (Punishment).

3. Note-Taking

Your notes are to be used solely to assist you and are not to substitute for your recollection of the evidence in the case. Do not assume simply because something appears in a juror's notes that it necessarily took place in court. Instead, it is your collective memory that must control as you deliberate upon the verdict. The fact that a particular juror has taken notes entitles that juror's views to no greater weight than those of any other juror, and your notes are not to be shown to any other juror during your deliberations.

4. Communications with the Court

If it becomes necessary during your deliberations to communicate with me for any reason, simply send me a note signed by your foreperson or by one or more other members of the jury. No member of the jury should ever attempt to communicate with me or with any court personnel by any means other than a signed writing. I will not communicate with any member of the jury on any subject touching on the merits of this case other than in writing or orally here in open court. Do not ever disclose how the jury stands numerically or otherwise on the question of guilt or innocence.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

5. Right to See Evidence

You will have the exhibits and a list of exhibits received in evidence during the course of the trial in the jury room with you. If you wish to have any portion of the testimony repeated, you may simply indicate that in a note. Be as specific as you can be if you make such a request. Let us know which exhibit or which part of which witness's testimony you want to hear, and please be patient while we locate it. If you need further instructions on any point of law, you should also indicate that in a note.

6. Return of Verdict

When you have reached a verdict, simply send me a note signed by your foreperson that you have reached a verdict. Do not indicate in the note what the verdict is.

To report a verdict, it must be unanimous. That is, all of you must agree that the government has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that Mr. Greebel knowingly, willfully, and with intent to defraud, entered into an agreement with at least one other person to commit every element of wire fraud in Count One, or every element of securities fraud for Count Two.

Jury Instructions - Public
Draft 2 December 12, 2017

You must render a verdict for the defendant as to both Count One and Two of the Superseding Indictment. To help you, I have prepared a verdict form that may be of assistance to you in your deliberations. On the verdict sheet are spaces marked "guilty" or "not guilty" for both counts. The form is in no way intended to indicate how you must deliberate or decide the facts of this case. The foreperson should use a check mark in the appropriate space indicating "guilty" or "not guilty" for each count of the Superseding Indictment with which Mr. Greebel is charged. The foreperson should also place his or her initials and the date beside each mark on the verdict form.

Finally, I want to remind you of the oath you took when you were sworn as a juror at the beginning of this case. Remember, in your deliberations, that this case is no passing matter for the government or Mr. Greebel. The parties and the court rely upon you to give full and conscientious deliberation and consideration to the issues and evidence before you. By so doing, you carry out to the fullest your oaths as jurors: to

Before asking you to retire and begin your deliberations, let me first consult with counsel to be certain I have not overlooked any point.
